Pixel Chix 2 Story - House - Pink with Blue Window

Product Features

Totally fun and totally unique, it's a 2-D girl living in a 3-D world

Push the buttons on her handheld house to interact with your Pixel Chix pal

You and your pal decide together what to wear, what to do and where to go
Find more fun and challenging choices through 5 levels of play
Sort of a pared-down version of The Sims computer game, Pixel Chix provides grade-school girls with a virtual buddy whose every move they can control. Residing in a luxurious 2-story dark pink house, this Pixel Chick is a 2-dimensional LCD image imposed on a background with 3-dimensional furniture. Five action buttons on the front program the Pixel Chix pal to play, eat, change clothes, go out, or go to sleep, and "yes" and "no" buttons let girls answer the Pixel Chick's questions. As long as girls are playing with their chick, she is happy; but ignore her, and she gives her owner a lot of 'tude by anxiously tapping her foot and clearing her throat. Attentive owners will continue to advance along the 5-level gaming system and accumulate more cool stuff for their Pixel Chix pal. However, neglecting the pal causes her to lose all her possessions and, eventually, her screen darkens and she splits. Connecting two Pixel Chix houses together lets virtual friends visit one another while hooking three or more together causes the pals to have a multi-caller phone chat or perform a dance together

Vtech Tablet Notebook

Product Description

As learners advance, so should their tools. This smart, kid-sized notebook computer, with a sleek, detachable touch-sensitive screen, engages older learners in over 100 challenging activities that cover content in English, math, science, geography and history. Arcade-style adventure games introduce higher-level thinking through Artificial Intelligence technology that tracks a child's performance and adjusts the subjects and skill levels to meet the child's learning needs. The advanced technology paces the learning and guides kids through activities and subjects where they need more work. Kids excitedly interact with subject matter and learn to excel in every area...including music, art and a foreign language!
